Conference Schedule

Thursday October 20, 2022

12:00-4:00 pm - The Art of Mongol Zurag, curated by Prof. Uranchimeg (Orna) Tsultem

- Gayle Karch Cook Center for Public Arts and Humanities in Maxwell Hall, Indiana University Bloomington (IUB) campus.

Mongolian traditional style of painting, much rooted in a Buddhist pictorial tradition, is known as Mongol Zurag (Mongolian picture). This tradition was instrumental in maintaining the cultural identity for Mongolian artists during the period of socialism in the twentieth century. It was largely suppressed prior to 1990, after which Mongolia opened its doors to the world, becoming a new democratic, multi-party nation in Asia after seven decades under a socialist regime. Mongol Zurag was further developed in this century by contemporary changes in Mongolia's economy and politics. This small display of Mongol Zurag works is held in conjunction with a panel on the topic of Mongol Zurag and is made possible by the support of the Mongol Zurag Society in Mongolia.
